

Good

Program : Music in 13 Time
Date : May 4, 1955
Time : 3:00 - 4:00
Anner : Strauss

Theme: Up and under

Anner: Good Afternoon! It is 3:00 and Music in 13 Time Again.

Theme: Up and out.

Anner: This afternoon, I thought you all might like to have a little review of your year's work in Music 13. Before we start our music in review, let's get into the 13 mood and listen to one of the outstanding songs from this week's listening assignment - Set Svanholm to sing the Prize Song from Act III of Die Meistersingers by Richard Wagner.

Music: 4'30" - Band 2 - Side 2

1. Anner: You have just heard the Prize Song song from Die Meistersingers by Wagner. Now we'll proceed and have our little review. See if you can recognize the period and the composer of the following piece.

Music: Handel - 8'12"

Anner: I hope that most of you could recognize the piece you just heard which was written in the Baroque period. It was a Concerto for orchestra in D by Frederick Handel. If you weren't able to get the right answer, I'll give you 2 chances to redeem yourself. Listen to the next two pieces and see how much information you can get from one listening of each.

Music: Mozart - 12'28"
Beethoven 15'40"

Anner: How did you do this time? Here's hoping you got the right answers. The first piece was Eine kleine Nachtmusik, one of the loveliest instrumental serenades written by Mozart.

Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata No. 14 in C# Minor Opus 27 no. 2 was the second piece played by the pianist Rudolf Serkin.

After spending a year taking a Music Appreciation course, I imagine that most of you would like to stop studying and begin enjoying many of the great works of ^{the} outstanding composers. Let's start now and appreciate the excellent workman^{ship} of Liszt's Concerto No. 1 in E^b with Artur Schnabel at the piano. Antal Dorati will conduct the Dallas Symphony Orchestra.

Music: Liszt - 16'08"

Annex: You have ^{been listening to} ~~just heard~~ the Concerto No. 1 in E^b by Franz Liszt with Artur Schnabel as the pianist.

This concludes our last program of Music in 13 Time for the year. ~~I hope you have enjoyed and listening to the music that has been played.~~ Before I sign off,

I want to wish all of you Music 13ers the best of luck on your final exam.

I hope you have been able to benefit from the music played on your show of music in 13 Time.
